Thirty-Second Sunday of Ordinary Time: Parable of the Lamps

This old joke fits today's Gospel. A priest visited an elderly parishioner whom he hadn't seen at church for a few months. In a nice way, he tried to tell her she should be coming to church. "You know," he said, "You are not getting any younger and you should start thinking more of the hereafter." "Well, Father," she said, "I think of the hereafter all the time." I go into the kitchen, and I say to myself, what am I here after? And I go into the bedroom, and I ask myself, what am I here after? And it goes on like that all day." In the next few weeks Jesus will be trying to get us to think more about the hereafter. The year is coming to an end as a new Church year begins with the First Sunday of Advent on December 3.

In Jesus' parable in the Gospel this weekend, I want to reflect on lamps (light) and wisdom. The lamp we are talking about is essentially love. Love, in order to be genuine, doesn't have to be extraordinary. What we need is to love without getting tired or cynical. A lamp burns with a continuous input of small drops of oil. If the drops of oil cease, the lamp will go out. What are these drops of oil in our lamps? They are the small things of daily life: faithfulness, punctuality, small words of kindness, a thought for others, our way of being silent, of looking, of speaking, and of acting. These are the drops of love that keep our religious life burning like a lively flame.

Jesus shared our life, our loneliness, our anguish, our death. He is not far away from us. He is very close to us. We can touch, serve, and love Him every day of our lives. With the oil of prayer and good works, we must keep the lamp of faith burning, and He will recognize us. We won't be judged on a momentary lapse, but on our life as a whole. Since we do not know the day nor the hour of the Lord's coming, we must be prepared so that when He comes, we can enter His kingdom. To be prepared means to be a doer rather than a mere hearer of the word.

All that Jesus says to us in this parable is meant as a warning. This warning is a sign of his love for us. It tells us that every moment should be beautiful, that the soul should always be ready for the coming of the bridegroom, always waiting for the voice of the Beloved. We need wisdom to guide us in being prepared.

Wisdom is a central theme in our readings today. It is one of the seven gifts of the Holy Spirit, and it is key to living the stewardship way of life in our complex world. As Christian stewards, we should rely on this gift and ask the Holy Spirit to increase it within us. Our First Reading is taken from the very Book of Wisdom. It instructs, "Taking thought of wisdom is the perfection of prudence, and whoever for her (that is, wisdom's) sake keeps vigil shall quickly be free from care." How does the seeking of wisdom — not worldly wisdom, but the wisdom that comes from the Holy Spirit — "free us from care?" It causes us to rely on God to lead and guide us. This is indeed a freeing way to approach life, removing the pressure from us to have all the answers, because the truth is, we don't. The world is too complicated and unpredictable. The Christian steward can rest in the power of the Holy Spirit to help us navigate any situation.

Jesus' parable about a wedding is told not from the vantage point of the bride and groom, but of the ten young maidens who had been invited to the happy occasion. Five of them were foolish, said Jesus, five of them were wise. The measure of their wisdom is their readiness to be a part of the event. All the young women had oil in their lamps, but five had an additional supply. This is, of course, foreign to our concepts of weddings today. Weddings in our society are announced for a specific time and place, and if things are late in getting started, those invited guests begin to fidget a bit. But in first century Palestine, a wedding could happen anytime within several days. The uncertainty was considered a part of the excitement of the wedding. The bridegroom hoped to catch some of the bridal party napping. But fairness required that some announcements be made, so just before the big event a messenger was sent through the streets shouting: "Behold the bridegroom is coming." The alert ones in the wedding party would respond, and the others would be left behind. In Jesus parable, the cry came at midnight. This was often the case; most bridegrooms chose to come late at night.

The sleeping attendants were awakened. It was then that they realized that they did not have enough oil in their lamps to get through the night. Panicked, they attempted to borrow some from the other bridesmaids. But they responded, "If we give you our oil, there won't be enough for us. Hurry out to the dealers and buy some yourself." So, the five foolish maidens hurried out, but by the time they returned the door had already been closed. They knocked on the door and pleaded to be a part of the festivities, but the groom said: "If you belonged at this event, you would already have been present." Jesus concluded: Watch therefore, for you know neither the day nor the hour.

What is this parable suggesting to us? I would like to make a few suggestions: First, it is saying some things in life that cannot be borrowed. You and I cannot live on someone else's oil. We can help one another in so many ways, but at some point, we are on our own. This is especially true when it comes to faith. The road of the religious pilgrimage is a narrow one and can only be walked two at a time, you, and God. Your parents cannot walk it for you or with you. Husbands cannot depend upon the devotion of their wives. I have had more than one husband laughingly say to me over the years, "My wife handles the religion in our family." What they really reveal, however, is how little they understand about faith.

Secondly, I think that the parable suggests that there are some things that cannot be put off until the last moment. I don't know if our church insurance plan covers earthquakes. But earthquake insurance is not something you can put off until the last moment. In the 20 seconds it takes to do tremendous damage, we have not the time to call a meeting of the Parish Council to establish a committee to shop around for the best rates. Diapers and wipes are not something you can put off until the last moment. In the 10 seconds it takes to make a tremendous mess, we have not the time to go the store, figure out the new size, color, and design, and get the proper supplies. A midterm exam is not something you can put off until the last moment. On the morning of the exam, there is neither the time nor the sobriety to understand two months' worth of knowledge. As businessmen and women and moms and dads we all understand that there are some things that simply cannot be put off.

Jesus is telling us in this simple parable about the tragedy of the unprepared life. Jesus said that we are always to be prepared, for no man knows the hour. My friend, the best way to get ready for tomorrow, is to be ready today. A time will come when no further preparation is possible. Sometime back in one of my former parishes, I visited a parishioner who had to undergo surgery. When I visited her, she said to me, "Pastor, if everything turns out all right, that's okay. If everything does not turn out alright, well, that's ok too." She was speaking in the language of the five wise maidens. She is prepared to live; she is prepared to die. And behold, all the maidens slumbered and slept. But at midnight there was a cry: Behold the bridegroom. Come and meet him." Those maidens who were prepared, Jesus called wise. Could He say that of you?
